

Some Reasons Not Political.

Address of Rev. M. B. Adams, President of the Kentucky Anti-Saloon League.

Coming from the President of an organization whose business it is to wipe the saloon out of existence, it will be read with great interest. Mr. Adams gives facts and arguments.

The question is asked why should the Democratic voters of the State who will participate in the November primary election for the selection of nominees for United States Senator and State officers support the candidacy of Governor Beckham over that of Senator McCrery for the United States Senate? Right well can this question be answered by the friends and advocates of the Governor, and they should welcome the putting of such a question. Especially true is this of those Democrats who endorse enforcement of statute law without fear or favor, and who believe that the Governor has done his duty in the recommendation and the enforcement of laws proposing to regulate the sale of liquor and observance of the Sabbath. It can be said for Senator McCrery that he has grown old in the service of the party, but has it not been as so much per service? He has been on the pay roll of the State of Kentucky or of the National Government since before his opponent was born. He has had every honor that his party could bestow upon him during all these years, and returning him to the Senate for another six years after his present term would be but making of him a time server at an annual salary of five thousand dollars, when no one who has ever waged political battle with him will say that he needs the money.

Now to answer the question why Governor Beckham should be selected over him for the Senatorial nomination in the November primary election. Good and sufficient answers are so numerous and come so readily to those who have watched the public career of Kentucky's Governor that we have had to group them under nine headings, with the addition of some sub-headings, giving a little into details. His friends should carefully peruse the reasons, for they are in the main matters which relate to the chief issue of the present campaign, the question of regulation of the sale of liquor without influence from the vicious element which controls the traffic in the State of Kentucky. This element is championing the cause of Senator McCrery. He cannot get away from their support if he would, and so one will accuse the Madison statesman of getting away from any character of support in a political fight, for he is a believer in the use of the "sawney" of war. But, regardless of what position he personally may occupy, the argument is the same. No man, until Governor Beckham loomed upon the public horizon in Kentucky, ever came out, while the recognized leader of one of the dominant political parties, for regulation of the liquor traffic, and for the enforcement of all laws touching it without regard to whether or not his position had endorsement of those engaged in the business. Because of his taking this position, and not because they favor Senator McCrery's candidacy, and in order to make of him an example for all future Governors of the Commonwealth who may have an ambition to go higher and represent their State in the National Congress, this lawless and for the most part vicious element has determined, if possible, to encompass his defeat. Shall they be permitted to accomplish their purpose, is a matter of whether or not Mr. McCrery shall be returned to Washington under a promise, which he is willing to give that he will at the close of his term retire.

Now for a resume of the Governor's actions during his public service which affect in more or less degree the issue of the campaign. EVERY TEMPERANCE DEMOCRAT

SHOULD VOTE FOR GOVERNOR BECKHAM BECAUSE OF THE SERVICE RENDERED BY HIM TO THE CAUSE OF GOOD MORALS.

The following provisions of the local option laws of Kentucky have been placed on the statute book during his administration and by his active support and assistance. Let the temperance man read this catalogue and ask himself the question if he can afford to join the liquor enemies of the man who has helped to do so much for the moral interests of Kentucky.

Putting offenses against the local option law within the jurisdiction of magistrate's courts, thus avoiding the delay of Circuit Courts.

Making the person who furnishes a house, room, wagon, &c., to an alleged liquor seller jointly liable with the vendor.

Simplifying the form of indictments against illegal sellers of liquor, avoiding the complications of the old law and rendering convictions easier.

Making the possession of a United States revenue stamp prima facie evidence of guilt.

Requiring the convicted party to give bond after a second or subsequent conviction and giving the court discretion to increase that bond.

In the case of "C. O. D. Shipments," into prohibition territory, the place of delivery is made the place of sale and the carrier and his agents made jointly liable with the vendor.

Forbidding all subdivisions of a county to vote separately on the same day the county votes except cities of the first, second, third and fourth classes. The effect of this is to make the county a unit except when first, second, third and fourth class cities vote separately on the same day. In all other cases the county controls.

Forbidding any precinct in a city to vote separately on the same day the city votes. This makes the city a unit against the precincts which compose it when the city wishes to exercise its option.

In the case of an election for a county or city, if the county or city goes dry, the whole territory is controlled by that vote. If the county or city goes wet the sections which have, previous to election, been under prohibition, remain as if no vote had been taken.

Forbidding the shipment of liquors into prohibition territory by paid carriers, except that individuals may bring in not more than one gallon at a time and physicians and druggists not more than five gallons at any one time.

Forbidding the wholesaling of liquors in prohibition territory except by manufacturers selling at the place of manufacture and not to be drunk on the premises.

The bill which has interested the people of the State more than any other is the "County Unit Bill." This could not have been passed without the aid of Governor Beckham.

Numbers of counties are now voting dry. They will owe their freedom from saloons to the work of Gov. Beckham, in large measure.

Kentucky stands about first among the American Commonwealths in the high development of her local option laws. This high point has been reached during the present administration which will go down in the State's history as the era of a great moral reform.

Worthy of commendation is the gallant fight made by the Governor against the powerful rectifying and adulterating interests during the Legislature of 1906, which resulted in putting a heavy tax on that business. While this was not a prohibition fight it was a just one and the services of our executive are entitled to recognition.

The liquor interests suffering so severely from this superb system of temperance legislation have combined for Gov. Beckham's defeat as a punishment. No Democrat who stands for the temperance issue can afford to join the enemies of moral reform and law enforcement and help them accomplish their purpose.

2. GOV. BECKHAM SHOULD BE SUPPORTED IN ORDER TO REFUTE THE OFTEN REPEATED CHARGE THAT THE TEMPERANCE PEOPLE WILL NOT SUSTAIN PUBLIC OFFICIALS WHEN THEY STAND FOR MORAL ISSUES IN FACE OF THE ANTAGONISM OF THE LIQUOR INTERESTS.

It is a sort of maxim in politics that one saloon keeper is worth a dozen church members when it comes to active citizenship and the support of officials who do the bidding of affected interests. This is why the saloon is powerful in politics.

If the saloon keeper is interested in not having the law enforced, he votes for an official who will do what he wants and stands by him to the last. This very thing temperance people have got to do if they succeed in obtaining and enforcing laws which will enable them to control the liquor traffic. If they do not, they play into the hands of the criminal element and become their pliant tools. There is no alternative for the temperance Democrat in this campaign. He must support Gov. Beckham because his ruin has been decreed by the saloon people who would thus punish him for having served the moral needs of the State.

3. THE DEFEAT OF GOV. BECKHAM IN THE NOVEMBER PRIMARY WOULD FURNISH THE LIQUOR FORCES OF KENTUCKY WITH THE INSPIRATION OF A POLITICAL VICTORY WHICH WOULD NERVE THEM TO UNLASH THEIR EFFORTS AND DISCOURAGE THOSE WHO STAND FOR RIGHT THINGS.

For years the temperance people

How W. S. Lloyd Sells Hyomei. The Guaranteed Cure For Catarrh.

W. S. Lloyd has an unusual offer to make to our readers, one that will be of the greatest value to many.

For some years W. S. Lloyd has been watching the results from the use of Hyomei, a treatment for catarrh that cures by breathing medicated air, absolutely without any stomach dosing. The results have been so universally successful that he feels justified in making a public offer to treat the worst case of catarrh in Mt. Sterling with the understanding that if Hyomei does not cure, the treatment will cost absolutely nothing.

The regular Hyomei outfit costs only one dollar, and consists of a neat pocket inhaler that can be carried in the purse or vest-pocket, a medicine dropper, and bottle of Hyomei. If this is not enough for a cure, extra bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50 cents.

W. S. Lloyd positively guarantees a cure, if Hyomei is used in accordance with directions, or he will refund the money. 11-13 of Kentucky have been seeking reasonable legislation. During the last Legislature a great victory was gained and the whisky forces thrown into confusion. They found with surprise that they were without political influence. One of their leaders said they were without a friend in the State administration. This was a great and depressing blow to them.

But they must try to regain their lost ground. The first move in the campaign for the control of the public and political life of Kentucky is to become again a potent political power, able to elect and elect candidates for office. They elect as a first victim Gov. Beckham, during whose administration and by whose help our truly great system of local option laws has been built up. They reason that if they can defeat him no future Governor will ever have the courage to do anything hostile to the liquor business. The question which now confronts the Democracy is, will the party allow the liquor interests to use it to wreak its vengeance on Gov. Beckham, and enable them to win the first battle of their campaign to regain control of the State? The Democratic party must meet the Republican party next year when local option will be one of the main issues. It cannot afford to go into battle with a liquor victory charged to its account in the November primary. A whisky victory over Gov. Beckham means the encouragement of our enemies and the great discouragement of those who have borne the brunt of the fight for years.

4. BECKHAM'S DEFEAT WOULD ENTHRONED THE LIQUOR FORCES IN POSITIONS OF POLITICAL INFLUENCE AND POWER, WHICH THEY WILL USE FOR THEIR OWN ADVANTAGE AND THE HURT OF THE PEOPLE.

Credit the liquor people with large common sense. They have been using more of that article than the temperance have as a rule. Jesus Christ said that "the children of this world are wiser in their generation than the children of light." Translated into ordinary speech this means that bad men use more shrewdness and wisdom in accomplishing their purpose than good men do in achieving theirs. The liquor people will try to use many a deluded temperance Democrat in Kentucky this November to win a victory over Gov. Beckham.

When the liquor forces line up behind one candidate and against another it is not that they have any personal preference in the matter but that they have made a bargain and that there is some great advantage to their business in so doing.

They are plotting Gov. Beckham's defeat, not that they prefer his opponent, but that they see a position of great advantage for their business by doing it.

ATTENTION, CITY FATHERS

Mike Holland, a saloonist, has been tried and fined $500 at the present term of court for operating a gambling house, which fine he has repaid. Unfortunately the allegations necessary to authorize a forfeiture of his saloon license were omitted by oversight from the indictment. Now that he has been convicted will our City Council take action and forfeit his license, or will this plain case be ignored? The names of the witnesses can be secured from the County Attorney if our City Fathers conclude to have an investigation.

Dock Hicks, another saloonist, has been twice indicted for violating the Sunday closing law. The violations occurred September 2, (day before Circuit Court convened). The witnesses are John M. Hall and Cate Tolliver, of Morehead. The former is prominent merchant and appeared before the grand jury and positively identified Hicks as the offender.

P. H. Davis, another saloonist, has been indicted for running a negro crap game on his premises and a forfeiture of his license is asked. The witnesses endorsed on the indictment are Robt. Carter, Charlie Chenault, Ed. Williams, Clark Rash and Jack Morris.

These last named cases, having been found at the present term of court do not stand for trial until the January term. In the meantime, members of the City Council, what are you going to do in the Hicks case? What action will you take in the Davis case? And lastly, what course will you pursue in the Holland case, in which case the defendant's guilt has been judicially determined and settled?

CLOSED.

The saloon conducted by Allen Bros. has been put out of business by Circuit Judge A. W. Young. Judge Young has a proper conception of his oath of office and of law enforcement and no man can say he favors any of the classes, for all men who become violators of law must share alike in his court.

Good people, you who care for the protection of life and property, you who love your homes, your God and this proud commonwealth rally to the support of Judge Young in his efforts of law enforcement and be pronounced supporting by vote and commendation the men who stand for higher morals and a rigid enforcement of the laws.

The city of Mt. Sterling is wet according to the vote cast on last Wednesday and unless the Court of Appeals in her redecision should be adverse to said election Mt. Sterling will be wet for a time. The case now in court from Henry county is a parallel to conditions in Mt. Sterling, and should the County Unit Bill be sustained as constitutional then another election will be asked for and the vote will be taken in the entire county, with the county as the unit. In the meantime we would suggest that the city license be increased to $1,000 and that the laws relative to the open saloon and Sabbath observance be strictly enforced.

Tuesday, October 2, is registration day.

The withdrawal of Judge Hines from the Auditor's race makes Judge Hagar the stronger in his race for Governor.

Whiskey has got to leave Mt. Sterling just as sure as the Court of Appeals declares the County Unit Bill constitutional.

If the local option election stands as valid those saloons now in dry wards must move into either the Second or Third Wards.

Judge Young not only fined Allen Bros. $500 and revoked their license, but had an order entered forbidding that license be granted to them at any time, permitting them to be the owners and operators of saloons. They are therefore out of the saloon business.

A CLEAR FIELD.

Mr. Hines having withdrawn from the race for the Democratic nomination for State Auditor, the Hon. Henry M. Bosworth has a clear field. Kentucky from her almost nameless worthy, honest, correct sons could not have selected a better one for the position of Auditor.

OPEN SALOON MUST GO.

The contest against the open saloon was vigorous, educational, determined, many of the advocates during their level best. Were it to go over again there would be more workers and the work would be more effective this time than before because the brave men and courageous women know better how to meet the enemy now. Temperance following will not lose a single vote and some of those who voted and some who were conspicuously reticent will do better next time.

The open saloon must go.

A reading of the letter of Rev. M. B. Adams, President of the Anti-Saloon League, will inform the friends of law and order, of the local option following and all the good citizenship of Kentucky as well and they need make no mistake in their selection of a candidate for U. S. Senator. The address is in this issue and we ask every man interested in the strict enforcement of laws to carefully consider every point that the great temperance leader makes.

THE CONSPIRACY.

On Monday the grand jury returned an indictment against P. H. Davis and Frank Gibbons, saloonists of this city, for their connection with the startling facts made known to the public by the writer and James Campbell in his sworn affidavit. Fortunately we escaped being murdered. However much we deplore the spirit of lawlessness which inspired the murderous assault by an innocent man upon an innocent man, yet we cherish no desire that personal violence should befall these saloonists. We are not to avenge any insult, wrong or violence contemplated or real. We commit that to the civil authorities ordained by God and man for such work. Woe be to a country when its people can not confidently look to the courts for a redress of the wrongs done to her citizens. When such confidence is destroyed the foundation of our social and civic institutions is endangered.

The grand jury has acted. With deep interest we await further judicial proceedings, believing that right will triumph over wrong, and hoping a higher plane of citizenship will prevail.

FACTS and OBSERVATIONS

ALLEN BROS. SALOON CLOSED AND LICENSE CANCELLED.

Look Out For Others.

Interest in local option election on Wednesday, Sept. 19, was intensified when announcement was made that Allen Bros. on trial for suffering gaming had been convicted in the Circuit Court, fined $250 each and had license to run a saloon cancelled. Under the decision of Judge A. W. Young.

Allen Bros., as a firm and as individuals are forever barred from securing a whiskey license anywhere in Kentucky. They were closed for business on Thursday morning. Now the crowds who drink whiskey and gamble go on in quest of it.

This decision is the result of facts reported on July 4. It's too bad that the City Council will not have (in this case) chance to show their deep interest in the public welfare. We have heard that they wanted facts (not of the Facts & Observation kind), which would justify them in interfering with the privileges and rights of Allen Bros. and others of their kind.

Montgomery County and this judicial district is to be congratulated in that we have as Circuit Judge a man who is capable, courageous and, so far as we know, impartial in his rulings. He has clearly shown that he will enforce the law. We take pleasure in thus publicly expressing our approval of his judicial acts.

All citizens should respect the law. If any are disposed to disregard it, we believe Judge Young can persuade them.

LOCAL OPTION ELECTION.

Women and Children at the Polls with Singing and Banners.

Wednesday, September 19, 1906, was a memorable day in the history of Mt. Sterling. The first real engagement between the advocates and opponents of the saloon brought surprise and alarm to saloon men, and while not as decisive a victory as many temperance people wished was nevertheless full of encouragement.

Mt. Sterling has been regarded as one of the strongholds of the whiskey interest. They had predicted a majority from 300 to 800. The result with 39 majority for whiskey was to them a startling revelation of the general public estimate of their iniquitous business.

For more than 20 years the saloon has had practically an undisputed sway; and was thoroughly entrenched; bold daring, unscrupulous and lawless, it usually got what it wanted; encouraged by the indifference if not actual sympathy of some men regarded as the best people of our city it has gone from bad to worse. The lights have been turned on, the public is being aroused, the handwriting on the wall tells of defeat that is near at hand for the legalized sale of intoxicants.

Before 6 o'clock a. m. on election day men, women and children were at the Christian church and on the street. From 6 o'clock a. m. to 5 o'clock p. m. continuous prayer meeting was held at the church, leaders changing every half hour at tap of bell. At each of the four voting places from opening to closing of polls there were many women singing gospel songs and distributing Bible quotations. The day was disagreeable on account of continuous rain, yet rain and mud did not hinder the women. Gospel songs by women on the street and their presence at the polls was as impressive as unusual. Their patriotic devotion to and interest in home children and native land was an inspiring sight to lovers of righteousness.

God bless the children. Yes they were there, at least 150 strong, ranging from 5 years up, every one with a small flag and the leaders of divisions with banners, all singing religious and patriotic songs. They made the circuit of voting places twice. They were led by Rev. J. B. Mescham ably assisted by Misses Mary Armstrong, Alice Apperson, Mabel Reis, Mary Smith, Anna Laughlin and Mrs. J. B. Mescham.

Yes, we made an honorable fight and on the first engagement did not get all we wanted. Victory complete will reward our next attack. Plans are being perfected and in due time announcement will be made. The friends of temperance are not at all discouraged. Montgomery county will join the ranks of those who have said: "The Saloon must go."

MISCELLANEOUS.

We wish to thank the many country people for their presence, sympathy and support. Your interests are ours. We fight a common enemy.

Money and whiskey were used by the opposition before and on election day. Waller Harper was detected and arrested. (For further particulars see County Court) Revs. Joplin and Hobbs and W. P. Apperson apprehended Mr. Harper passing money to the colored men. Both were arrested.

Interview With J. G. Trimble, Jr.

J. Greene Trimble, Jr., now in business in New York City, but a native of Kentucky, was at the Biggs chatting with old time friends and discussing pretty much everything of interest to Kentuckians not politics.

"I'm out of politics and paying close attention to business," said Mr. Trimble. "Still, it is hard for a native-born Kentuckian to put politics behind him, for I guess about all of us are born politicians. I've just reached Washington after a 10,000 mile trip during the past six weeks, extending from New York by a more or less circuitous route to the Yellowstone Park, and back by the way of Niagara Falls, the St. Lawrence, and interesting points in New England. I had a trip through some of the boat-growing regions of the country, and never in my life have I seen anything to equal the returns the farmers are gathering this year. There is not a single crop from one ocean to the other that is not yielding in abundance, and if the farmers don't put by a neat little account for the future it will not be because they do not have the money."

Mr. Trimble is interested in copper mining, and during his visit in the West inspected some of the properties he and his associates are developing.

"In the mining as well as other industrial enterprises, success is coming to those who have made investments," he said. "There are some people in New York who express the fear of a panic in the near future, but from my point of view nothing of the kind is imminent. Money rates have been a little high there for a time, but some persons look upon this as a good rather than a bad sign. It means that instead of speculating on money that can be borrowed at very low rates, the people are taking their own funds and investing them in good stocks, obtaining the actual certificates and putting them away in their strong boxes, where the speculator cannot get hold of them. Some of the best stocks in the market have disappeared in this way in large quantities, and where transactions involving the transfer of thousands of shares were quoted in the street a few weeks ago, the sales of the same stocks are now limited to a few shares. It is a healthy indication and certainly does not bespeak panicky conditions."

Referring to the sentiment of the country with regard to candidates, so far as the two great parties were concerned, he observed that two years was a long time ahead. He was not willing to admit that the crowded streets of New York cheering for Bryan was equivalent to his nomination two years hence, or that the sentiment for President Roosevelt throughout the country meant that he must again be his party's candidate.

"Shakespeare was the greatest reader of human nature the world ever knew," he said, "and the people of today are the same as those he pictured in his story of Julius Caesar. The dramatist gave us citizens one, two and three, cheering Brutus, and then, under the spell of Marc Antony's speech, applauding and approving that orator's words. So it is today. The citizens may be applauding the man A. He may set the country by the ears and precipitate the storm, but after it is all over, the man B will be here, and the people will applaud him. It is so the world over, and will continue so until the end."—Washington Post.

A Bunch of Catnip.

BY EMMA BENNETT MAHON.

(Copyright, 1906, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)
There was to be a circus in town, the first circus of the season. Bob had seen the posters on the billboards, and came home brimming with excitement and never left off talking about the coming show all through dinner. I said I thought it would be nice to go, too, and finally Aunt Jennie looked across the table at us and said:

"Well, I'll take you to it, children. It will be all right, will it, Henry?" she added, turning to papa. Papa had been looking over the letters that had come during the day and hadn't heard a word, and had to have the whole thing explained to him. Then he astonished us by answering promptly:

"I should think it rather awkward for you to go alone with them, Jane, but if they have set their hearts upon it, why, I'll go along."

Aunt Jennie murmured something about it being quite unnecessary, and too bad to take him away from his business, and then dinner was over and Bob and I could hardly wait for the next afternoon, when the show was to come off.

Aunt Jennie, you know, is mamma's sister. She has always lived with us. She is not pretty and gay like dear mamma was, but beautiful mamma! It is almost three years since she went away from us. Oh, it was dreadful at first. Aunt Jennie had always taken the care of us, but how proud we were when mamma would come in in her beautiful ball gown and kiss us good night. It was something to dream about. I remember one night papa asked Aunt Jennie if she didn't wish she was going along, and she said: "Mercy, no, Henry. What would I do at a ball?"

Well, after mamma died papa grew grave and cross and rarely spoke. Only Aunt Jennie seemed the same, and it did seem as if she played more games with us and made little pleasures and took us out more often than she did when mamma was alive.

Well, the day got there at last, and just as we were ready to start, sure enough, papa got home from the office, and away we all went together. You know how a circus is most always in some out of the way place, particularly in a city where vacant lots aren't very plenty. We had to walk quite a way after leaving the car, and as we were crossing the end of a big field, in the corner of an old stone wall, Aunt Jennie discovered a bunch of green catnip. "Oh, I must take it home to Silvertop," she exclaimed. Silvertop is our big Maltese cat, you know.

"Oh, Aunt Jennie, are you going to carry that old stuff all around with us?" I asked.

"It's so hard to get it nice and fresh, dear," she said, "and I don't mind carrying it a bit." And papa actually smiled and said:

"Always thinking of someone besides yourself, Jane."

And Aunt Jennie just buried her nose in the catnip and didn't look up.

We finally got to the circus ground, and after we had been all around and looked at the animals, we came into the tent where the performance was to be given, and papa got reserved seats for us all. They were pretty close down to the ground, for we were a little late and all of the really best seats were taken.

Well, it was a grand show! Bob and I always say that, no matter what happened after. Oh, there was such splendid riding, and a beautiful lady all in white and gold, who jumped through hoops, and an Indian juggler who swallowed swords and pulled yards and yards of ribbon out of his mouth, and a man who "hooped the loop" on a bicycle and made you just hold your breath. Oh, I couldn't begin to tell you all the wonderful things there were.

Finally, a keeper brought a big lion out into the ring and made it jump over the horses' backs and through hoops and do all sorts of tricks, when all of a sudden I guess nobody ever taken what happened—the lion got sick and wouldn't jump any more, and the keeper raised his whip to strike it and it gave the most frightful roar and sprang at its throat. The man jumped aside, but the lion kept straight on, out of the ring and over the little strip of ground between us and it.

"Oh, it was awful! For a moment you could hear a pin drop. Everybody sat straight and rigid in his seat, and then the air was suddenly filled with the most dreadful shrieks and groans, and people were rushing in every direction, climbing over the seats and one another, knocking one another down and trampling on each other, and the lion came right on, its white belly crouching close to the ground and its eyes blazing. It seemed headed straight to our seats. I heard papa say in a low, set tone, that sounded ever and over so far away:

"My God!"

And then Aunt Jennie got hold of my hand and pulled me up onto my feet and turned to him and said, just as she tells Bob and me to do things:

"Henry, you must save the children."

Papa seemed to wake up then, and grabbed hold of us both and began dragging us along over seats and people. Oh, it was awful, and I never want to go to another circus as long as I live!

I was crying, "Aunt Jennie! Aunt Jennie!" for I never knew that at that moment how much I loved her, and for a moment I tried to hang back and glance over the crowd to see where she was standing.

What I saw made me almost faint. I held my breath and waited. She was standing quite alone, for the people all about her had run away, and the lion was close at her feet.

Then, before I could even cry out, something wonderful happened. The lion suddenly lay right down on the ground in front of her and began rolling over and over, pawing the air like a kitten or a little puppy, only it was so big and clumsy.

It was all as still now as it had been noisy before. Everyone waited and held his breath, while several of the keepers crept slowly up from behind with spikes and bars, and almost before we knew it, they had driven the lion back across the ring and had him safe behind the bars of his cage.

When it was all over the people crowded about Aunt Jennie, so that papa and I had to squeeze through the crowd to get to her, and then we hugged and kissed her as if we never would leave off; yes, and papa kissed her, too, and then papa said in a choked kind of voice:

"I thank God, but I can't understand it yet, dear. Is it an other case of Daniel in the lion's den?"

And Aunt Jennie laughed with her eyes full of tears.

"No, Henry, it was the bunch of catnip. The lion got it in his stomach."

Papa explained it all to us afterward, how the lion and the tigers and cats are all of one family, and the old lion was just as crazy over catnip as our pussy cat is. Then papa hemmed and hawed a little, and got very red in the face, and said:

"And, children, I trust, after all she has done for us, it will please you to know that Aunt Jennie has promised to make me very happy by filling your own, dear mamma's place."

And, wasn't it dreadful. Bob set up a shout:

"Harrah for the lion tamer!"

The Success of Willy Smith.

BY D. H. TALMADGE.

(Copyright, 1906, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)
Willy Smith—a fair-haired, dreamy, worthless Willy, as we called him at school—slammed into my office one day last week, and plumped into a chair at my elbow.

"Congratulations, old chap!" he gasped.

I did so, then asked him some what crossly why.

"Haven't you heard it?" he asked.

"Not a word of it," I replied.

As a matter of fact I had not seen Willy for months, he having left the city early in the autumn to accept a position in a village mercantile establishment somewhere in an adjoining commonwealth. It was a plain job in an ordinary country store that he had been given by a kind-hearted uncle, but it was Willy's job and he had a perfect right to call it by any term he chose. I respected the privilege, because I had accepted a position myself.

Willy had never been famous as a discipline of strenuousness in life, for which reason he was not considered to be so well fitted as he might otherwise have been for taking up the struggle of existence. After he left school he pottered about in an aimless way for work which was not serious.

He found several openings, I believe, but the attachments thereof were not to his liking, and he had given up in disgust, devoting thereafter many hours of precious time to thumping the piano in his mother's parlor—a decrepit old instrument which wailed and shrieked pitifully under the treatment. He was still thumping, and eating with his mother's landlady, when the kind-hearted uncle came to the rescue.

"What?" he exclaimed. "You haven't heard it?"

"Not a word of it," I repeated.

"Then," said he, rising to his feet and dramatically stubbing the air with his arm, "know that I have achieved one of the great-

Is Disease a Crime?

Not very long ago, a popular magazine published an editorial article in which the writer asserted, in substance, that all diseases should be regarded as criminal. Certain it is, that much of the sickness and suffering of mankind is due to the violation of certain of Nature's laws. But to say that all sickness should be regarded as criminal, must appeal to every reasonable individual as radically wrong.

It would be harsh, unsympathetic, and yet criminal, to consider that all diseases should be regarded as criminal. another get a notion into my head after I left school that I ought to take lessons, and I did it for a time just to please her. The time and money were wasted. My instructor said he wouldn't instruct me if I wouldn't practice, and I wouldn't practice the idiotic stuff he gave me, so that ended that. Then I went over to London and found a sympathetic soul—and glory. Just thought, as long as I was in the city, that I'd drop in and tell you about it for the sake of all long yams."

"Glad you did, Willy," said I without much enthusiasm. "But you haven't told me about it yet. Get ahead."

"Well, it's a song—a ripper. Colingay, up at the Casino, is well over it. Says he'll sing it Saturday night. Barr & Co., the music publishers, have made me a proposition which I am now considering. It's worth a little fortune to me whichever way I take it. They pronounce the piece the most original composition that has come to their notice for months. Old Barr invited me up to dinner today, but I couldn't go because of mother. Naturally, another expects me to eat with her when I'm in the city for only a day. I promised uncle I'd be back to-morrow morning. There's a car of food to be unloaded, and help's scarce. I'd do anything to accommodate uncle; he's never made fun of me. Besides, I've got my wife with me, and she's got some sort of a church entertainment on for to-morrow night."

"Your wife, Willy! Heavens! Are you married?"

"Why, yes. Been married three weeks. Going to get out some announcements soon as this song business is settled. Will send you one. You see, the song and the marriage are rather mixed together. A my wife's a tenor soloist. Down the Eighth musician—one of the practice, Symphony of somebody or other, and the Russian dance and all those things as painfully as anybody I ever heard. Plays the most difficult music at night—Mendelssohn, Elz and those tiresome old humbugs, you know. She's nothing like me. I can read music to beat the orchestra; always could. But she says I don't quite catch the motif, whatever in the deuce that is, in the high grade stuff. I don't doubt it a bit. She knows whatever she asserts about her kind of music. She knows other things also. If she didn't, I'd still be wireless and unsuccessful. You see, she didn't like to marry me so long as my income consisted entirely of the salary derived from the mercantile establishment where I hold a position."

"I see," said I.

"Yes. Well, five weeks ago Sunday night, to be exact, I was at her home, and we'd been discussing prospects, and I was feeling pretty glum. Hope deferred maketh the heart sick, as somebody or other said."

"Exactly," said I.

"Yes. Well, she was called out of the parlor for something or other, and while she was gone I seated myself at the piano and began to play one of these nocturne things—you've seen 'em—title in German—pencil marks here and there to show how far the student got before he had to back out and start again. It happened to be open on the piano, and I played it. There it was right before my eyes, plain as the signature on a mortgage, and I was dashing it off—simply dashing it off, that is all, when she came fluttering into the parlor and asked me whatever, in the name of some music, the nocturne, other whose name has escaped me, I was up to. I confessed. She was silent for several minutes. Then she laughed. Then she solemnized. And then she scurried around and got a lot of music paper and a pen and ink, and told me to play the nocturne again, very retarded. I did so—O, I'd have done anything for that girl."

"Of course," said I. I was beginning to feel a real interest in Willy's story. I had never seen him in a state of animation before. He was quite another fellow.

"Well, after awhile she gently pushed me away from the piano, and played what she called my interlude. And actually, old chap, it was one of the cuttiest little tunes you ever heard—check full of birds and sunshine and young love—positively great. We found some words for it in a scrapbook that had belonged to her grandfather, and we named it 'Twinkle in the Sunshine,' and I brought it over here to see what would happen to it. And something happened to it. Well, I should think so. Say, I don't mind giving you the figures if you care for them."

He bent forward and whispered into my ears some that made my eyeballs hurt.

"And royalty added to that," he continued aloud, rubbing his hands together. "We were married as soon as possible after my return from that trip. That's all, old chap. Come over and see us Sunday or any time. Stay a week if you can. Must go now. Just thought I'd drop in and tell you about it, you know. Good-by."

"Good-by," I said. "O Willy!" But he had gone. It did not really much matter. I wished merely to call his attention to the fact that he had neglected to take his hat.

So Lovely.

"I presume," said the architect, "you will want a conservatory in the new house?"

"Oh, all means," replied Mrs. Goldens. "I think them little cupolas on top of the house are so nice to sit in on hot nights."

ADVISED HORSE MEDICINE.

Prince von Bulow's fainting fit in the reichstag recently attracted wide sympathy. One suggestion in particular impressed him. It was from an old veterinary surgeon. "I have been very much relieved to read in the papers that you have had a seizure of weakness. If you are subject to them, I can give you a remedy of my own discovering which is composed of quite harmless herbs. I have used it often for horses, and it never failed. You should try it." The imperial chancellor was profoundly touched by the thought that he needed horse physic.

For Thin, Poor Blood

You can trust a medicine tested 60 years! Sixty years of experience, think of that! Experience with Ayer's Sarsaparilla; the original Sarsaparilla; the strongest Sarsaparilla; the Sarsaparilla the doctors endorse for thin blood, weak nerves, general debility.

But even this grand old medicine cannot do its best work if the liver is inactive and the bowels constipated. For the best possible results, you should take the Sarsaparilla of Ayer's, and use the Purgative. The liver will quickly respond, and so will the bowels.

OPTIMISM OF GREAT VALUE

Practice of Looking Always on Bright
Side of Things Is Worth
Cultivating.

Probably there's no one quality which ought so to be cultivated to its highest point, yet which is made so little of, as is optimism.

"My children are so unlike," sighs one mother. "Eleanor is happy all the time, no matter what happens, and Edith is as sure to be depressed by trifles." That other mother came more nearly to the heart of things when she replied:

"I believe that children are nothing but little reflectors when they are wee, and that if you yourself are deliberately cheerful they will give it back to you unconsciously. I believe, too, that if you keep it up long enough they will, as unconsciously, form the habit of being optimistic."

The second woman's children are the sunniest little mortals in the world—they're forming the habit of optimism, and they'll find it a mighty valuable asset later on in life.

After all, although disposition counts for a great deal, persistently forcing yourself to look upon the bright side of things is laying the foundation for character building on a very fine plane, and the man or woman who overcomes a naturally worrying disposition adds strength as well to the sweetness of character he gains.

TRULY PHILOSOPHICAL.

A northern Michigan merchant tells a genuinely humorous story of a lumberman in that section, who, after a hard winter in the camps, appeared in the streets of one of the larger towns ready and anxious "to have a good time."

This lumberman had with him the sum of $500, the proceeds of his season's labor—a sum for which he had toiled and slaved and risked his life in the lumber camps, enduring the whole of the discomforts and tribulations of the rigorous winter. With the $500 this painfully amused the comparative civilization of a lumber town. He first purchased himself a big drink and an expensive cigar; then he hid him to a fare "joint," where he staked his entire fortune on a single play. In another moment he was penniless. Shifting the cigar from one corner of his mouth to the other, the lumberman cheerfully observed: "Oh, well; easy come, easy go."

Will or Will Not?

Will the State Democratic primary be held is a question that is disturbing the minds of the candidates for State offices just now.

It is said the rules of the Democratic primary would invalidate the election, and the rule referred to is this:

"No one shall be allowed to vote in the State primary unless he shall make the statement to the election officers that, before applying himself for a vote, he has cast his ballot for the Democratic nominee for Congress in the district in which he resides."

Lawyers says this would be a gross violation of the secret ballot system and could not be allowed. Injunction suits will be filed, it is said, and the holding of the Democratic primary may be prevented. Democratic leaders say the primary will be held, but admit the points made are serious.

Choice Limestone Farm for Sale

The Moses Markley farm, situated on the Ohio River, adjoining the town of Foster, Bracken county, Ky., of 900 acres. Bounded by the Chesapeake & Ohio R. R. and is on the Foster and Butler turnpike and within 30 miles of Cincinnati by boat or railroad, thus giving it water and rail competition.

This large tract of land has been rested for a number of years, is now in grass and high state of cultivation. The improvements consist of 5 good houses, 7 large barns and 3 large ponds of water. The farm is all under fence and partition fences separate the land in suitable acres for pasturage. More than 30 acres are in orchard, 300 acres are now suitable for tobacco and within 2 years there will be 300 more acres of tobacco land.

Will sell this tract of land at $40.00 per acre on long time, if desired, to a reliable party. This farm properly cultivated would be a fortune to a large family. On this farm is located the best limestone quarry on the Ohio River.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Aches and Pains Will Disappear if the Advice of This Mt. Sterling Citizen Is Followed.

A woman's back has many aches and pains. Most times 'tis the kidneys' fault. Backache is really kidney ache; That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it. Many Mt. Sterling women know this.

Read what one has to say about it: Mrs. Pamela A. Fletcher, of Queen Street, Mt. Sterling, Ky., says: "For years I had kidney complaint, pains across the small of my back and over my kidneys, dreadful aching in my back and I was sometimes so lame across my hips that I could not stoop and there was also difficulty with the kidney secretions. I used different medicines and prescriptions which seemed at the time to relieve me, but I obtained no lasting benefit. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills and a relative of mine got a box for me at F. C. Duerson's drug store. I used them as directed and they helped me in every way. My back felt much better and a stronger and the annoying and distressing kidney weakness was greatly relieved. My brother, Strother D. Carrington, of Paris, Ky., who had suffered a good many years with kidney trouble, also used Doan's Kidney Pills and found the results most beneficial. Doan's Kidney Pills are certainly worthy of recommendation."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole Agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Some Reasons Not Political.

CAMPBELL WOULD TAKE THE PARTY CONTROL OUT OF THE HANDS OF THOSE WHO STAND FOR PURITY OF POLITICAL LIFE AND PLACE IT IN THE HANDS OF THE CRIMINAL GLASSES.

The bar room advocates will put a vast sum of money into the attempt to defeat the Governor without any corresponding advantage to them. There is no hope for the temperance and moral interests of Kentucky if the liquor people are to continue to control the political parties. The liquor business must be put out of politics if Kentucky is to be free. You may have temperance meetings, study temperance lessons in the Sunday School, win fights against saloons in cities, towns and counties, but unless you put the liquor business out of politics control the State is still in slavery to the bar rooms. If the Democratic party is to win in the next State election it must ring out clear and true on the temperance question. The defeat of Beckham by liquor money would not help the fight they must wage.

6. WE MUST ACCEPT BATTLE WHERE THE ENEMY FORCES IT. THEY HAVE CHOSEN TO WIN THE U. S. SENATORSHIP AND CONDITIONS WE DO NOT CONTROL REQUIRE US TO COME TO GOV. BECKHAM'S SUPPORT. Ordinarily many an excellent man might prefer some one else to Gov. Beckham for the party nomination for U. S. Senator. He would rather the liquor fight had not occurred in connection with the race for this important position. But in war neither side can always choose its battle ground. The best of generals is often compelled to fight on ground chosen by the enemy. Not to do so is to be defeated. The

liquor people have chosen the U. S. Senatorship as the first position they propose to capture, and there remains nothing else to be done but to throw out the lines of battle at that point.

If the liquor forces are defeated at every point where they show fight it will be only a few years until their control of public affairs is at an end.

7. IT IS THE PURPOSE OF THE LIQUOR ADVOCATES TO PUNISH GOV. BECKHAM FOR WHAT HE HAS DONE AND THUS DETEST ANY FUTURE GOVERNOR FROM DARING TO OPPOSE THEM.

Ask any intelligent saloon keeper and he will tell you that this is the game. They are willing to spend money, tens of thousands of dollars of it to do this. If they succeed then, when under future executives the saloons sell on the Sabbath day, they will make back their campaign expenditure many times over. Saloons do their most lucrative business on Sunday. Then the working men are at leisure and by keeping them drunk they can get most of their week's earnings while the wives and children go hungry. It would pay the saloon keepers of Kentucky to spend one or two hundred thousand dollars to defeat Beckham if they could thus frighten the next Governor into submission when they will get it back by the millions wrung from the pockets of the poor.

8. THE SUPREMACY AND VICTORY OF THE LIQUOR INTERESTS IN THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY WOULD MEAN REPUBLICAN SUCCESS. THEY WOULD BE QUICK TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF DEMOCRATIC MISTAKES.

The liquor people are neither Democrats nor Republicans. They have no politics. They always work with the dominant party. In Ohio they are Republicans. In New York City they are Democrats. In Pennsylvania they are Republicans. In Virginia and Kentucky they are Democrats. They will leave the Democratic party a sinking ship if they think the Republicans can permanently hold the State. They will destroy the party if it ceases to do their bidding. If they fail to use the Democratic party they will try to work its ruin. On the other hand if the liquor people continue the liquor forces in power the people will destroy the Democracy, for the decree has gone forth from the people that the domination of the State by the liquor interests must cease. The defeat of Beckham would mean a liquor victory in the Democratic party with the sure consequences to follow.

9. THE VAST POWER OF THE ALLIED LIQUOR INTERESTS TO DO MORAL DAMAGE TO THE STATE IF SUCCESSFUL IN THEIR PURPOSE DEMANDS THEIR DEFEAT IN THE COMING PRIMARY.

Let us go down their battle line, review their ranks and estimate their strength and the interest they have in the defeat of Beckham.

Among the prominent liquor leaders opposed to Beckham will be found the following, constituting a most powerful combination: Ex-Senator Campbell, Contrill, of Scott county, who, during his term as State Senator, led the liquor Throng of Bayers Continues. The people of Mt. Sterling and vicinity appreciate the great advantage W. S. Lloyd obtained for them, in getting the Dr. Howard Co. to allow the regular 50 cent size of Dr. Howard's specific, for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia, to be sold at half price, 25 cents, and have bought hundreds of bottles.

Many orders have come by mail at this popular price, for it is very unusual to be able to buy sixty doses of a standard medicine for half price.

Every bottle of the specific sold by W. S. Lloyd has had his personal guarantee to refund the money if it was not satisfactory, but none has come back, showing the wonderful curative power of this remedy.

Unlike ordinary medicines for constipation and dyspepsia, the dose of Dr. Howard's specific is reduced after a few days use, and the cure is soon complete and lasting. 8-2-11.

fight in the Senate against the County Unit Bill and succeeded twice in defeating it. He was the most powerful and resourceful opponent of that measure. During the last legislature he was at the head of the liquor lobby in Frankfort and represented there in the fight against temperance legislation the saloon keepers of the State, the brewery interests and the retailers.

State Senator H. S. McNutt, a saloon keeper of Louisville, former president of the State Liquor Dealers' Association, and a shrewd and tireless fighter, is bitterly opposed to Beckham. Beckham has hurt the liquor interests and he must be defeated.

William F. Klair, ex-representative in the lower House from Lexington, is a prominent and able opponent of Beckham. Klair operates a big saloon in Lexington and is the leading dealer there.

Joseph Hermann, of Louisville, wholesaler and retailer, who represents the saloons of the City License Board, and who speaks for the 800 saloons of the city, is an active organizer against Beckham and a member of the advisory committee of Beckham's opponent. He says the Governor has no business coming to Louisville interfering with the liquor business.

Leonard Spouse, of Lexington, ex-president of the State Liquor League, is a bitter opponent of Beckham. This is the gentleman who sent out the famous letter of February 27, 1902, asking for thousands of dollars from the saloon keepers to use in the defeat of the County Unit Bill in the Legislature. The following quotations from the letter will show the character of the fight the liquor men wage and what they are capable of doing against Governor Beckham. "The Farris Local Option Bill is now pending before the Legislature. It was held in the Senate Committee on Religion and Morals as long as possible by friends of the liquor men. . . . at Frankfort forces us to the belief that it will require both time and funds to kill this bill.

There are only a few among the leaders. The entire saloon organizations of the State are united against Beckham. They are organized for the fight and are thoroughly equipped with money.

Lexington saloon keepers will almost insult one who comes into their place and is ascertained to favor Beckham. The Lexington Herald in its comments on Gov. Beckham's opening speech at Lexington, said the next morning:

"It is most probable that the liquor interests of the State are opposed to the Governor." The Shelby Sentinel and, in a recent issue, said, "The liquor interests of State are intensely against Governor Beckham." The organ of the Louisville Liquor Dealers' "The Free Press," recently called upon the liquor men all over the State to take up the war against him.

It is known that the rectifiers are his bitter opponents on account of the damage the Governor, in the discharge of his duties, has done their business and on account of the tax he was so successful in placing on their products at the last session of the Legislature.

But perhaps the most powerful influence of all that has determined on the Governor's defeat is that of the Brewery Trust. This trust has millions of dollars invested in the liquor business.

This corrupt combination either owns or has mortgages on 80 or 90 per cent of the saloons in Kentucky. They set up the saloon keeper in business, furnish him his fixtures and his supplies. The fact is, that the average saloon keeper is the virtual slave of the brewers. They drive him seven days in the week and a large part of the vast income that comes to their coffers is from the sale of liquors on Sunday, contrary to law.

They have invested more than a half million dollars in corner lots in Louisville on which they locate saloons as rapidly as possible. Sunday selling makes this business profitable.

They also have vast investments in pleasure parks in and around the cities, notably in Louisville. One of their resorts, Riverview Park, of Louisville, has had expended on it for improvements $50,000. But 2,500 people in one of these parks on Sunday and the income from the sale of liquors to the brewers is an immense one.

When they are compelled, by the act of the Governor, to cease selling on Sunday, as the law requires, they lose hundreds of thousands of dollars which remain in the hands of the working classes for the support of their families and which goes into the channels of legitimate trade. Of course they are against Gov. Beckham. They can easily afford to put a hundred thousand dollars or more into a campaign for his defeat if they can thereby prevent the next Governor from doing the same thing. They will save money by it. Can any Democrat who loves his home, his State and the cause of good morals, afford to stand in line with this unsavory crowd who are banded together for the purpose of continuing to break the laws.

It is a safe maxim in all moral reform to never do what your enemy wants you to do. The liquor forces of Kentucky, allied against Gov. Beckham, are hoping that tens of thousands of honest Democrats will vote against him for the senatorial nomination. These saloonists would not hesitate to spread havoc and ruin among these people if they could make money out of it. They are hoping that the honest people of the State can be deceived by the real issue in this campaign. In order to do this they are keeping quiet and concealing a still more important fact. To come out openly would be to drive decent people from them. These saloonists are your enemies. Don't do what your enemy wants you to do. If we can prevent the liquor advocates from winning their first fight in their very struggle for control of the state they will not win the second very soon.

Progress of Temperance in Tennessee.

The saloon has been driven out at practically all of the smaller towns and there is more than an even chance that it will have to go from all others after the next Legislature adjourns. Outside of Chattanooga, Knoxville, Memphis, Nashville, Columbia, Jackson, Clarksville and one or two smaller places, there are now no saloons. Columbia is coming to the Legislature with an appeal for the extension of the Adams Law. Clarksville is likely to send the same sort of an appeal, but unless there is a marked change in sentiment in the country, it may not be necessary for these towns to ask special acts, as the Legislature may interdict the saloon anywhere in the State.

About the only thing that can save the saloons in the larger cities will be their agreement to submit to restricted territory and high license. In Nashville the city license has been increased from $72 to $250 per year.

The State is after the immoral houses, which from time immemorial have sold liquors without a license. The State is demanding that these establishments pay retail license, the same as saloons.

In Nashville the gamblers have been practically put out of business, and war is being made on them in every other town. Many of the prominent sports have taken up other avocations, while not a few have left the State.

It is almost a certainty that the incoming Legislature will pass a bill prohibiting betting on horse races. No such wave of reform has ever struck the State, and no where is there the least sign of a reversal of public opinion.

Woman Suffrage Defeated in Victoria.

The news that the Legislative Council of Victoria has defeated woman suffrage for the fourteenth time, calls attention afresh to the queer state of things existing in that corner of Australia. The women of all Australia, including Victoria, can vote for members of the National Parliament; and the women of all the other five Australian States can also vote for members of their respective State Parliaments. South Australia, Western Australia, New South Wales, Tasmania and Queensland have successively given their women the right. In Victoria, a bill to grant women State suffrage has passed the popular branch of Parliament 14 times, by increasing majorities, and it has been thrown out for the fourteenth time by the non-representative upper house. The women of Victoria will therefore remain for the present in the anomalous condition in which the women of an American State would be if they could vote for members of Congress but not for the members of their own State Legislature.
